This is a haven for wildlife: red kites, buzzards and other rare bird species are often seen, and an otters' hide belonging to the RSPB is tucked quietly away in the grounds. Two attractive lakes, one of which can be fished by arrangement, add to the quite exceptional beauty of this lovely corner of Wales. The newly-completed Talley Woods, adjacent to the property – along with many local public footpaths – offer a wide choice of woodland walks, with stunning views across the valleys.

Getting there

Where to go and what to do

Abbey cottages are perfectly situated for exploring the many delights of the area. The Dolaucothi goldmines dating from Roman times, the spectacular Dan-Yr-Ogof caves, the National Botanic Gardens of Wales with one of the largest single-span glasshouses in the world, the National Wetlands Centre of Wales and, of course, the Brecon Beacons National Park are all within easy reach.

There are also many historic castles, stately homes and beautiful gardens nearby, and the seaside towns of Cardigan Bay are only an hour away. Golf, horse-riding and fishing are also available locally.

The nearby town of Llandeilo (7 miles) offers a choice of shops, several good restaurants and inns, a post office, and Tourist Information Centre. A pub serving food is only a five minute stroll from the cottages.

Each cottage is beamed throughout and all retain a host of original features. Wood burning stoves, open fireplaces and some antique furnishings are complimented by modern day facilities, all combining perfectly to provide spacious, well-equipped and comfortable accommodation.
